EACEA

Education, Audiovisual & Culture
Executive Agency

The new Education, Audiovisual and Culture Executive Agency (EACEA), located in Brussels, is operational since 1st January 2006.

Its mission is to implement a number of strands of more than 15 Community funded programmes and actions in the fields of education and training, active citizenship, youth, audiovisual and culture.

Bringing these programmes under a single banner will help to coordinate management and provide programme beneficiaries with a fully comprehensive service.

While the agency has its own legal identity, it reports to two Directorates-General of the European Commission: Education and Culture (EAC) and Information Society and Media (INFSO), which remain responsible for programming, evaluating, and issuing policies.

The agency is in charge of most management aspects of the programmes, including drawing up calls for proposals, selecting projects and signing project agreements, financial management, monitoring of projects (intermediate reports, final reports), communication with beneficiaries, and on the spot controls.

The programme strands managed by the Agency are all centralised and support technical projects, which do not imply making political decisions.

Executive Agencies have been created by the European Commission to put policies into action more efficiently and effectively, and to help the Commission concentrate on its policy-making and institutional tasks. They benefit from highly specialised international staff, with a thorough knowledge of the project cycles and outstanding technical and financial expertise.

Education and training:

More than 2800 projects and grants(*) involving all kinds of citizens learning in every single life situation:
pupils and teachers, students and professors, non European students and scholars, apprentices, workers, employees, adults looking for a second chance...

Active Citizenship and Youth:

2500 projects (*):
connecting people throughout Europe via support to civil society organisations and initiatives (European Think Tanks, NGOs, trade unions, citizens groups, town twinning...)
making young people key players in Europe (mobility, exchanges, European Voluntary Service...)

Audiovisual:

About 1600 projects (*) supporting:
development, distribution and promotion of cinematographic works and audiovisual programmes, training of audiovisual professionals.

Culture:

About 270 projects (*) encouraging artistic and cultural creation in Europe, through cooperation of public and private cultural operators active in music, performing arts, visual/ plastic arts, literature, books and reading, translation and cultural heritage.
